#RESTARTMB RESTORING SAFE SCHOOLS

COVID-19 Response Management in K–12 Schools and Early Learning Child Care Centres

Public health officials confirm a positive case/cases in a school or child care setting and determines if they were in a school or child care setting during their infectious period.

Public health officials do contact tracing to identify close contacts.

Public health officials will inform close contacts to self-isolate (quarantine) and advise if testing is required.

Public health officials inform the administrator of the school or child care centre of a positive case/cases that was/were present in the facility during their infectious period.

If needed, the school and early learning child care centre, in collaboration with public health officials, will communicate with the school or child care community.

Public health officials inform individuals when they can discontinue self-isolation (quarantine) and return to school.
