

Red River Technical Vocational Area

is a partnership of five southern Manitoba school divisions devoted to providing technology education options to high school students in the region. The partnership came into being in the early 1970's and has grown into the largest consortium of its type in Manitoba. This cooperative model allows for a wider variety of programming than any one of the partnering divisions could offer on their own.

Think of the RRTVA as a "virtual" regional technical school. Instead of one large building there are seven locations that have from one to six technical programs. Students have a "home" and "away" semester. The required core credits are earned in the student's "home" school. During the "away" semester, they are bused to the school that offers the program of their choice. They can earn anywhere from four to twelve credits toward graduation in a technical program. These programs may allow students to earn credits toward:

- Dual Academic Technical Diploma
- Advanced placement in College and Apprenticeship Programs
 - Mature Student Diploma

For more information on the RRTVA and it's programs as well as other technical options, check out the RRTVA website at www.rrtva.ca or talk to your School Counsellor.
