12:45-2:30	It is hopeful that this session time will be used for both instruction and peer discussions. Rather than having a formal session break down the topics to the right will be addressed and covered as the needs of the group decides. The intention is that in addition to training in the product we want teachers to leave with lesson ideas and practical application in using the Scholantis Learning tools with their students.	The options below are not limited to what can be discussed and reviewed, however represent the basic approach that most schools are taking. a. Student Portfolios 1. Students 2. Parents b. Using Blogs for student voice c. Engaging Students in online activities d. Utilizing the Assignments feature

2:30-3:25 Learning Tools Moving forward

This session is a debriefing exercise with Scholantis regarding the learning tools suite. The intent is to gather feedback on how the tools are being used, with a focus on where users would like to see the tools go. What are they missing? What would teachers like to see? This is an open conversation and no options are off the table. Scholantis is going to use this information to create a new roadmap for moving forward with the product, so this is one that you don't want to miss!

3:25-3:35 Mind Break

Two groups reconvene for final portion - discussion and map forward with Scholantis team.
